

LOCATED NEXT TO THE HISTORIC ZEDLER MILL

Zedler Mill offers a rustic view of 19th century life. With many historic firsts to its credit, the mill was a small enterprise started in 1874 as a water wheel operated grist mill. It was bought by German immigrant Fritz Zedler who added a feed mill, a cotton gin, a corn sheller, a public water supply system, a blacksmith shop, and an electrical generating plant.

The restored feed mill and cotton gin museum show the intricacy and efficiency of the early industrial revolution. The restored scale house, once used to weigh wagons full of produce, serves as a hub for the complex. A mule barn, produce storage building and other outbuildings are all available for viewing. A riverside amphitheater and boat landing have been added to the native plant landscaped park. Stroll along the trails winding under the spreading pecan trees and enjoy the beauty of a former time.
